Addressing Risks of Utility Poles and Overhead Electricity Wires

Community Open House on Utility Undergrounding

Stop by our informational open house to learn more about the City's efforts to address the risks associated with overhead utility poles and electrical wires. Speak one-on-one with City staff, ask questions and share your comments.

Wednesday, April 11, 2018 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Community and Susi Q Center, Multipurpose Rooms 1 & 2 380 Third Street, Laguna Beach, CA 92651

Laguna Canyon Road, Coast Highway and key evacuation routes are lined with utility poles, dangerous overhead power lines and transformers, posing multiple risks:

- In the last 10 years, at least six fires in Laguna have been caused by power lines and utility equipment
- Fallen poles and electrical wires can block roadways, preventing evacuation from affected neighborhoods
- Overhead electricity wires are more prone to power outages than underground wires, reducing reliability of utility service
- There have been 58 vehicle collisions with utility poles in the City since 2007

More than 90% of our city is designated a "very high fire severity zone", according to CalFire. It's believed that fallen power lines sparked last year's devastating fires resulting in 43 fatalities and destroying thousands of homes in California.

Exploring Potential Options

The City of Laguna Beach is evaluating funding strategies for undergrounding of utilities along Laguna Canyon Road and other key evacuation routes. Existing city funds alone cannot cover the significant cost of utility undergrounding — estimated at up to $135 million for Laguna Canyon Road and other key routes — without major cuts to police, fire and public works services.

Laguna Canyon Road, Coast Highway and key evacuation routes are lined with utility poles, dangerous overhead power lines and transformers, posing multiple risks:

- In the last 10 years, at least six fires in Laguna have been caused by power lines and utility equipment
- Fallen poles and electrical wires can block roadways, preventing evacuation from affected neighborhoods
- Overhead electricity wires are more prone to power outages than underground wires, reducing reliability of utility service
- There have been 58 vehicle collisions with utility poles in the City since 2007

More than 90% of our city is designated a "very high fire severity zone", according to CalFire. It's believed that fallen power lines sparked last year's devastating fires resulting in 43 fatalities and destroying thousands of homes in California.

Exploring Potential Options

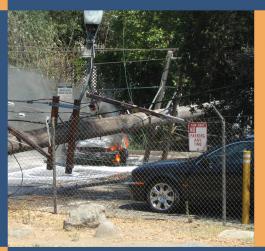

The City of Laguna Beach is evaluating funding strategies for undergrounding of utilities along Laguna Canyon Road and other key evacuation routes. Existing city funds alone cannot cover the significant cost of utility undergrounding — estimated at up to $135 million for Laguna Canyon Road and other key routes — without major cuts to police, fire and public works services.
